At its Jan. 11 meeting, the School Board of Orange County recommended the Orange County Board of County Commissioners suspend an automatic impact fee increase due to take effect Jan. 28.

The current school impact fee structure automatically increases the fee 5 percent each year through 2012.

Impact fees are largely applied on construction projects for new residential developments to pay for new student capacity at schools in the development area.

The suspension would be temporary, pending the completion of an impact fee study due in the spring.
