Midlothian renews growth incentives

From STAFF REPORTS

Published: Monday, January 24, 2011 12:20 PM CST

MIDLOTHIAN – Last year, Midlothian became the first and perhaps only community in North Texas to waive all residential impact fees as a means of jumpstarting its housing market.

Encouraged by the program's success in 2010, at its Jan. 11 meeting, the city council voted unanimously to renew its housing incentives, extending the impact fee incentive another six months at a 50 percent discount rate.
